Active Learning

@ UMASS

CTFD | Center for Teaching & Faculty Development
Team-based learning is one of many active learning methods that can be integrated into your courses. From a full course redesign to simple, targeted techniques, active learning strategies have been empirically tested to work!

Employing active learning techniques in the classroom can benefit students of all academic abilities (Walker, Brooks, Baepler, 2011) and increases faculty engagement (Umbach & Wawrzynski, 2005).

Learn how to get started at: umass.edu/teambasedlearning