Standard 2: Assessment System and Unit Evaluation

The unit has an assessment system that collects and analyzes data on applicant qualifications, candidate and graduate performance, and unit operations to evaluate and improve the unit and its programs.

Assessment System

UNACCEPTABLE

The unit has not involved its professional community in the development of an assessment system. The unit’s system does not include a comprehensive and integrated set of evaluation measures to provide information for use in monitoring candidate performance and managing and improving operations and programs. The assessment system does not reflect professional, state, and institutional standards. Decisions about continuation in and completion of programs are not based on multiple assessments. The assessments used are not related to candidate success. The unit has not taken effective steps to examine or eliminate sources of bias in its performance assessments, or has made no effort to establish fairness, accuracy, and consistency of its assessment procedures.

ACCEPTABLE

The unit has developed an assessment system with its professional community that reflects the conceptual framework(s) and professional and state standards. The unit’s system includes a comprehensive and integrated set of evaluation measures that are used to monitor candidate performance and manage and improve operations and programs. Decisions about candidate performance are based on multiple assessments made at admission into programs, at appropriate transition points, and at program completion. Assessments used to determine admission, continuation in, and completion of programs are predictors of candidate success. The unit takes effective steps to eliminate sources of bias in performance assessments and works to establish the fairness, accuracy, and consistency of its assessment procedures.

TARGET

The unit, with the involvement of its professional community, is implementing an assessment system that reflects the conceptual framework(s) and incorporates candidate proficiencies outlined in professional and state standards. The unit continuously examines the validity and utility of the data produced through assessments and makes modifications to keep abreast of changes in assessment technology and in professional standards. Decisions about candidate performance are based on multiple assessments made at multiple points before program completion. Data show the strong relationship of performance assessments to candidate success. The unit conducts thorough studies to establish fairness, accuracy, and consistency of its performance assessment procedures. It also takes changes in its practices consistent with the results of these studies.

Guidelines for contributors

The Colombian Applied Linguistics Journal, CALJ, is an annual publication of the School of Sciences and Education, Master Program in Applied Linguistics of Universidad Distrital in Bogotá, Colombia for professionals interested in research and teaching issues in the field of Applied Linguistics for the Teaching of English. This journal is mainly concerned with informing the academic community about current completed and ongoing research relevant to teaching and learning English as a foreign language.

This journal attempts to disseminate ideas related to classroom issues and to provide a forum for discussion on teaching. A further concern is to promote the exchange of information among members of the profession.

The editors of CALJ are the professors from the M.A. Program at Universidad Distrital. Teacher educators and researchers from 19 Universities collaborate in the evaluation of articles.

Authors should send their manuscripts to: CALJ, Editors, Maestría en Lingüística Aplicada, Universidad Distrital, Calle 34 No. 13-15 Of. 405, Bogotá, Colombia
E-mail: maestria@udistrital.edu.co This email address is being protected from spam bots, you need JavaScript enabled to view it.

Manuscripts relevant to research and classroom issues in English teaching, are welcome and should be submitted to the editor in duplicate and with a magnetic copy. An abstract should be prepared for each article (limited to 120 words). Each table and figure should be submitted on a separate page and should be titled. The majority of CALJ readers research and teach English and disciplines related to foreign language teaching in Colombia and abroad. The length of your article will depend on the topic, and maybe on the section for which you are submitting it. Manuscripts should be typed and double spaced throughout not exceeding 15 letter size pages or 6,000 words.

The APA manual ought to be followed for style. Bibliographic citations in the text must include the author’s last name, and the date of publication and may include page references. Complete bibliographic information for each citation must be included in the list of references.

To assure impartial review each manuscript should be accompanied by a cover sheet with the title; author’s name, position, address, fax number and E-mail address; and a short (less than 50 words) bio data statement. Identifying information should not appear elsewhere in the manuscript in order to insure anonymity for the board of reviewers.

Publication. It will be assumed that your article has not been published in another publication and that it has not been considered by another publication. Upon publication, authors will receive two complimentary copies of the issue in which their article appears. Manuscripts are not returned to authors. Authors should retain a personal copy. If your article is accepted, be prepared to revise it if necessary, in order to shorten it or to clarify something, for example. Generally, if major changes are necessary, either the article will be returned to you for amending or the edited version will be sent to you for approval.

Copyright. Any copyrighted articles appearing in CALJ are reprinted with the permission of the copyright owners. These articles may not be reproduced in whole or in part, without the written permission of the copyright owners, except as otherwise authorized by applicable copyright law. Acknowledgements and copyright notices, when necessary, appear with the articles. If you wish to use the article again in a publication written or edited by you, you may do so provided that its original publication in CALJ is acknowledged.

Small Grants in Support of Diversity Education

The report of the Diversity Commission calls on the University administration to "support the development of more General Education Diversity courses that focus on issues of difference, culture, power and privilege." To that end, the Chancellor's Action Plan proposes "incentive grants for curriculum and pedagogical development projects" in diversity education. (See http://www.umass.edu/campusdiversity/.) The Provost has allocated funds to support these grants and has asked the General Education Council to award them.

The Council will consider any proposal that promises to improve diversity education at the University, but there is a particular interest in proposals that address one or more of the following needs:

- Courses that satisfy the General Education U (U.S. diversity) requirement, especially from departments or colleges that currently offer few such courses. The Council welcomes proposals for new courses, for improvement of existing U courses, or for modifications of established courses to bring them into the scope of the U requirement.

BEACON DEADLINE: Notice! Change in Beacon submission procedure: Please submit Beacon announcements to Room 123A Furcolo Hall or to llascell@educ.umass.edu. The deadline remains 3:30 p.m. on Monday. All assistantships will run for two issues unless otherwise indicated. Examinations and dissertation proposals run for only one issue.
Programs to train and mentor teaching assistants or associates in diversity courses.

Curricula that more fully integrate diversity education into the major. (These need not involve general education courses).

Ideas for improving diversity education in large lecture courses.

Ideas that readily scale up and transfer to other courses and departments.

The Center for Teaching will offer consultation to participants when they begin their projects and when they are ready to prepare their final reports. Participants will also meet regularly as a group to discuss their ideas and experiences.

Up to 10 grants of about $6,000 each are envisioned, but proposals for larger amounts will be considered with sufficient justification. This competition will occur annually, and renewals as well as new proposals will be considered. Collaborative and interdisciplinary projects are welcome.

The proposal cover sheet and instructions are available at http://www.umass.edu/provost/diversitygrant.html. Questions should be addressed to the chair of the General Education Council, Randall Knoper (knoper@english.umass.edu). The deadline for receipt of proposals is March 12, 2007.

2007 Graduate Student Research Excellence Award by Sue Lasky and Sherri Brown, Graduate Student Research Excellence Award Committee Chair and Co-Chair.

Division C will again present its research excellence award for the best paper accepted for presentation at the 2007 AERA annual meeting by a current or recent graduate student. This award represents Division C's continuing efforts to promote and support the professional development of its graduate students and to recognize graduate research excellence. The award winner will be recognized at the annual business meeting of the division at the AERA conference in Chicago, where he or she will receive $500 and a commemorative plaque. The 2006 winner, Colleen C. Hawkins from the University of Sydney accepted the award for her paper entitled, "Perfectionism: Clarification of multidimensionality and perfectionist typology using the Frost Multidimensional Perfectionism Scale." The paper selection criteria include: (1) new knowledge contribution to the field, (2) significance of the problem/question, (3) theoretical and/or practical importance of the research findings, (4) originality, (5) quality of the research design, (6) APA V formatting, (7) clarity of presentation, (8) innovative implications and directions for future research, (9) adequate & relevant references, and (10) overall future promise of the researcher. We at Division C strongly encourage all potential contributors to accept this significant opportunity for professional growth by entering the competition.

Enthusiastic participation in this award program has served to promote the professional development of our newest scholars. We are pleased to report that three recent winners of this award have gone on to become assistant professors at major research universities.

This competition provides current or recent graduate students the challenging, yet rewarding task of presenting a clear, concise, journal-length rendering of their research in a compelling manner. Receiving this award is acknowledgement for conducting outstanding research, and of course, the award represents the attainment of a very significant professional and personal milestone.

To be eligible for the competition, several criteria must be met. Papers must first be officially accepted for presentation at the annual meeting in Chicago. The research must have been conducted while still a graduate

Information Technology Council Subcommittee on Academic Technology

INSTRUCTIONAL TECHNOLOGY CONFERENCE

The Scholarship of Teaching & Learning: Technology & Reflective Practice

April 5, 2007 Sturbridge Host Hotel Sturbridge, Massachusetts

Keynote Speaker: Randy Bass Professor of American Studies, Georgetown University; Executive Director, Center for New Designs in Learning and Scholarship; Director, Visible Knowledge Project

From the mid 1990’s until 2000, the Information Technology Council sponsored an annual “UMass Instructional Technology Conference.” On April 5, 2007, we shall begin anew. Some issues have not changed: how do we adopt and adapt instructional technology to best meet the institution’s commitment to excellence in learning? With “Web 2” technologies affording richer teaching and learning environments, the choices, challenges, and opportunities are even richer. The question, now, isn’t whether to adopt particular technologies. It’s, how better to understand and build on their capability to enhance learning and teaching. This conference will present the best current thinking on what questions to ask, what insights to build on.

Presenters will be UMass faculty and staff who have engaged in adoption and experimentation of newer academic technologies in teaching. They will include, but not be limited to, winners of the UMass Academic Technology Grants (formerly “Professional Development Grants”). The conference will also offer a workshop session on the nature and practice of scholarship on teaching and learning, as well as opportunities for gathering of special interest groups.

For more information, contact: Mark Schlesinger, Associate Vice President, for Academic Technology University of Massachusetts, 225 Franklin Street, Boston, MA 02110  (617) 287-7102
