Pierre Orelus, a student in the Language, Literacy and Culture concentration, has published \textit{EDUCATION UNDER OCCUPATION: The Heavy Price of Living on a Neocolonized and Globalized World}. In this book, the author critically analyzes the ongoing and wide-ranging effects of colonialism and globalization on the poor, especially on those living in the "Third World." The author's overarching argument is that colonization was not merely about the conquest of foreign lands, but it was also about the ideological monitoring of the colonized mind, often maintained through western hegemonic texts and institutional apparatus, such as schools and churches. Analyzing and situating colonialism in the context of western neo-liberal policy of occupation and economic, political, and ideological dominations, the author thus demonstrates how, through schools and the mass corporate media, neocolonized and occupied subjects have been mis-educated to internalize and reproduce old western values, beliefs, and norms at the expense of their own.

The voices of those brutalized by the twin iniquities of neocolonialism and imperialism have for too long been silenced. In this personal narrative, Pierre Orelus, a Haitian immigrant and educator, shares his reflections, hopes, and dreams for the future. It is time for a voice such as Pierre's to be heard by teachers, teacher educators, and others concerned with social justice.

Standard 6: UNIT Governance and Resources

PERSONNEL

Unit workload policies, including online course delivery, do not permit faculty members to be engaged effectively in teaching, scholarship, assessment, advisement, P–12 collaboration, and service. Faculty loads for teaching on campus and online generally exceed 12 hours for undergraduate teaching and 9 hours for graduate teaching. Supervision of clinical practice generally exceeds 18 candidates for each full-time equivalent faculty member. The unit’s use of part-time faculty and graduate assistants contributes to the lack of program coherence and integrity. An inadequate number of support personnel limits faculty effectiveness and candidate progress toward meeting standards. Opportunities for professional development, including training in the use of technology, are limited, leading to an adverse effect on program quality.

ACCEPTABLE

Workload policies, including online course delivery, allow faculty members to be effectively engaged in teaching, scholarship, assessment, advisement, collaborative work in P–12 schools, and service. Faculty loads for teaching on campus and online generally do not exceed 12 hours for undergraduate teaching and 9 hours for graduate teaching. Supervision of clinical practice does not generally exceed 18 candidates for each full-time equivalent faculty member. The unit makes appropriate use of full-time, part-time, and clinical faculty as well as graduate assistants so that program coherence and integrity are assured. The unit provides an adequate number of support personnel so that programs can prepare candidates to meet standards. The unit provides adequate resources and opportunities for professional development of faculty, including training in the use of technology.

TARGET

Workload policies and practices permit and encourage faculty not only to be engaged in a wide range of professional activities, including teaching, scholarship, assessment, advisement, work in schools, and service, but also to professionally contribute on a community, state, regional, or national basis. Formal policies and procedures have been established to include online course delivery in determining faculty load. The unit’s use of part-time faculty and of graduate teaching assistants is purposeful and employed to strengthen programs, including the preparation of teaching assistants. Clinical faculty are included in the unit as valued colleagues in preparing educators. Unit provision of support personnel significantly enhances the effectiveness of faculty in their teaching and mentoring of candidates. The unit supports professional development activities that engage faculty in dialogue and skill development related to emerging theories and practices.

Every real change, every revolutionary idea, every heartfelt gesture, whether it transforms one life or a thousand, was once seen as eccentric. Leaders are few and followers are many for a reason: Change requires bucking the status quo, and bucking the status quo requires a willingness to be perceived as crazy, dangerous, or ridiculous.

ENGLISH FOR SPECIFIC PURPOSES (ESP) INSTITUTE

The Indiana Center for Intercultural Communication (ICIC) in the I.U. School of Liberal Arts at Indiana University-Purdue University (IUPUI) is pleased to offer the Eighth Annual English for Specific Purposes (ESP) Institute on July 9-20, 2007. Coordinated by Dr. Ulla Connor, courses taught by Dr. Ulla Connor and Dr. William Rozycki.

What is the ESP Institute?
An intensive, two-week institute to introduce ESL practitioners and English language educators to English for Specific Purposes.

Two courses, offered through IUPUI meet for two weeks:

Linguistics T600: Issues in ESP (3 credit hours), M-F
This course will provide learners with the historical and theoretical background of ESP, especially ESP in the U.S. Theories and models for teaching ESP will be evaluated.

English G541: Materials Development for TESOL (4 credit hours), M-F
This course looks at needs analysis and the creating/adapting of ESL teaching materials for use in specific settings.

Workshops by visiting ESP researchers/practitioners, guest speakers from Indiana companies addressing workplace issues, presentations by ESL professionals.

For whom is the ESP Institute designed?

- Individuals currently involved in English for academic or professional purposes
- Teachers of English as a second language (ESL) or as a foreign language who wish to acquire skills for teaching ESP in the workplace

What are the benefits of completing the ESP Institute?

- Acquisition of the skills and knowledge base to set up a basic ESP program (needs analysis, syllabus and course design, materials development, program implementation, evaluation)
- Accessibility to ICIC staff and resources on future language training issues
- Opportunity to continue studies toward a 21-credit hour certificate in TESL with emphasis on ESP
- Insight into an innovative teaching approach

How do I register?

IUPUI/IU students can register via the internet at: https://onestart.iu.edu/my-prd/Portal.do or (317) 274-1501

Non-IUPUI/IU students should contact the Graduate Non-Degree Program at: http://www.iupui.edu/~resgrad or (317) 274-1577

Those wishing to take this for no university credit should contact ICIC directly ($1,000 for both courses, $600 for either T600 or G541 individually)

For more information, please contact: ICIC at (317) 274-2555, icic@iupui.edu, www.iupui.edu/~icic.

Information for international participants: For non-credit registration we believe that a tourist visa accommodates this activity. For credit options, internationals would need J-1 visas.

CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS

INTERNATIONAL SEMINAR ON ETHNOGRAPHY AND LANGUAGE LEARNING

The International Seminar on Ethnography and Language Learning will be held on December 10 to 12, 2007, sponsored by La Universidad Autonoma Benito Juarez de Oaxaca. The theme of this year’s seminar will be: The ethnographic turn in the study of learning additional languages.

The objectives of the seminar will be: to bring together scholars in applied linguistics in language learning and related disciplines to explore new theoretical and methodological perspectives on ethnographic research; to publish a volume of selected articles on the topic; to establish an agenda for national and international ethnographic networks on learning additional languages; to engage teachers and student-teachers in these debates.

We solicit papers addressing one or more of the following questions:

What are the interplays between language, culture, agency and structure in the process of adding language(s) to existing language repertories?

What are the roles of identity construction in additional language learning? (i.e. in what ways do the identity locations of gender, sexuality, social class and ethnicity affect the dynamics of additional language learning?)

What are the cultural and social meanings attached or assigned to language performances by the actors involved (students, teachers, community, etc.)?

What kind of language ideologies frame the social context of additional language learning?

What are the overall political and economic factors that frame the context for additional language learning in Mexico?

Can the everyday lives of language learners be represented by ethnographic narratives?

Can the complexes of postcolonial and poststructural argumentation be represented by the use of ethnographic narratives?

Can we define the role of power and authority in additional language learning through ethnographic analysis?

Can we ethnographically define which Standard of English is being used, learnt and taught in Mexico?

What is the political, social and cultural import of English in Mexico?

What are the ethnographic comparisons of English learnt in the Mexican classroom and the English that is brought back by returning migrants?

Abstracts (700 words long and including description of the objective, setting and methodology of the study) should be sent to: Dra. Maria de los Angeles Clemente, e-mail: angeles-clemente@hotmail.com

The participants whose abstracts are accepted will submit their papers by October 15th and they will be notified of their acceptance by November 1st. All the participants will receive an electronic copy of the 12 papers accepted, which should be read in order be able to give feedback to the authors during the seminar.

The participants will have 60 minute sessions (15 minutes to talk about their paper and 45 to discuss it)
All the participants would work on the final versions of their papers in order for them to be published around July 2008 by the UABJO and other universities willing to participate.

Other important dates:
Results on abstracts notified by: August 5th
Maximum abstracts accepted: 20 abstracts
Papers submission deadlines: October 15th
Results on papers notified by: November 1st
Maximum papers accepted: 12 papers
Registration fee: 120.00 USA dollars (official invoices issued by UABJO)
Deadline for articles to be published: March 31st 2008
