SEEKING NOMINATIONS FOR THE SCHOOL OF EDUCATION
COLLEGE/SCHOOL OUTSTANDING TEACHER AWARD

The College Outstanding Teacher Award program was instituted as a complement to the Distinguished Teaching Awards given by the Graduate School. The purpose of the award is to honor individual faculty members for their teaching and mentoring accomplishments within their own colleges. While classroom teaching is the fundamental criterion, this award also actively values supervision of field/clinical experiences, supervision of research, and mentoring professional publications and presentations.

The Office of Academic Affairs is seeking nominations by colleagues and/or students. Please submit your nomination to Jane Clukay (jclukay@educ.umass.edu) in the form of a letter highlighting why your nominee should be considered for this award.

Deadline for receiving nominations is Friday, February 11, 2011.

Find SOE Scholarship information inside.

The deadline for applying for SOE 2011 scholarships is February 16.
Five Colleges Grants
The Five Colleges will fund two faculty-student research seminars this summer, with support from the Mellon Foundation. This program—now in its second year—supports inter-institutional faculty teams (each team to include a mix of junior and senior faculty members) while members explore a shared research interest. Team members will be paid up to $2000 each (or a total of $6000 for the entire team). The grant will also support up to five undergraduate research assistants ($400/week + room and board). Full details are at: fivecolleges.edu/rfp.

DEADLINE FOR SUBMISSION EXTENDED TO FEBRUARY 16.
Last summer Five Colleges funded two very successful seminars, “Gender and the Human Genome” (Sarah Richardson, Jennifer Hamilton, Laura Lovett, Banu Subramaniam) and “Architectural Studies: Sites and Citations of the City” (Michael Davis, Heidi Gilpin, Karen Koehler, Thom Long, Mary Russo, Daniel Warner). We hope for similar success this year.

FORMATION OF DISSERTATION COMMITTEE
ANGELA YANG HANDY Proposed Dissertation Title: “The Impact of Information and Communication Technologies (IICTs) in Training Visually-Impaired People for Mainstream Employment: An NGO’s Technical and Vocational Training Program in the Philippines.” Statement of the Problem: Information and Communication Technologies (ICTs) have revolutionized the education and employment opportunities for people with disabilities. While internalized conventions have engendered national governments to people ICTs as a tool to support the education and employment of people with disabilities, few studies have examined the impact of these ICTs on training and education in developing country contexts. This study will contribute to this body of literature by studying the impact of ICTs on the training of visually-impaired people attending technical and vocational courses in the Philippines, with a focus on courses that prepare them for working in the call-center industry.
Chairperson: Dr. Jacqueline Mosselson.

GRADUATE STUDENT DIVERSITY ASSISTANTSHIP PROGRAM (AY11-12)

The Graduate School is offering 10 Graduate Diversity Assistantships for incoming students (new to UMASS as of Fall 10) and current graduate students who have demonstrated academic excellence and are members of social groups who have been traditionally underrepresented at UMASS. This award is for minority students who are U.S. citizens or have a green card. Priority is given to incoming students (any degree or CAGS) and current students doing dissertation research who have a signed dissertation proposal on file. Of the 10 Diversity Assistantships awarded, 3 will be for dissertation level students. The assistantships will provide a stipend and waive tuition and curriculum fee and will provide a health insurance benefit. These awards will be for one academic year.

Incoming Students:  NOTE: “Incoming students” are defined as students who are new to UMASS Amherst, not new to a specific degree. The assistantship duties are determined by the student’s advisor, Concentration Coordinator or Graduate Program Director (Linda Griffin). They must be directly related to the student’s academic program.

Continuing Students: The assistantship duties are determined by the student’s advisor, Concentration Coordinator or Graduate Program Director (Linda Griffin). They must be directly related to the student’s academic program.

Dissertation Assistantships: These assistantships are for students who are expected to finish their degree within one year. Students must have an approved dissertation proposal on file.

NOMINATION PROCEDURE- The Concentration Coordinator should complete the Nomination form. It should be submitted to Linda Guthrie in Room, 123 Furcolo.

Incoming students: Submit the Nomination form with a complete copy of the Graduate School application, signed by the Concentration Coordinator and Department Chair.

Continuing students: Submit the Nomination form, a personal statement, a copy of the graduate transcript and one letter of recommendation from the student’s chair or advisor.

Dissertation students: Submit the Nomination form, personal statement, c.v. and a letter of recommendation from the student’s chair.

DEADLINE to submit the nomination packets to Linda Guthrie is: Friday, February 15, 2011

NOMINATION, RECOMMENDATION and PERSONAL STATEMENT FORMS ARE AVAILABLE FROM LINDA GUTHRIE, 123 Furcolo or lguthrie@educ.umass.edu.

"Where do we stand on Global Warming?"

Global temperatures have risen by ~1°C since the end of the 19th century. This increase has not been linear, as there have been periods when temperatures were stable for short periods before rising once again. The reasons for these changes in the rate of temperature rise are related to anthropogenic factors (sulphate aerosol pollution versus greenhouse gas inputs to the atmosphere) as well as to natural factors (volcanic eruptions, solar irradiance variations, El Niño/Southern Oscillation [ENSO] fluctuations, etc). Over the last decade or so, temperatures have not risen at the same rate as in previous decades, and this has led to speculation that global warming is over. This view was reinforced by the unusually cold winter that many parts of the United States and western Europe experienced in recent months. However, such a conclusion was premature. January 2010 was one of the warmest Januaries on record when the entire globe is considered, subsequent months broke records for high temperatures, and the last decade was the warmest, globally, for many centuries. Extreme events this year have been common. Nevertheless, many politicians who do not favor controls on carbon emissions insist on presenting a one-sided view of the situation to the public. This effort has been reinforced by a relentless campaign to find and publicize a few errors in the IPCC 4th Assessment Report, to shake the public's confidence in that Report’s main conclusions.

Meanwhile, while the political bickering goes on, the levels of carbon dioxide and other greenhouse gases in the atmosphere continue to increase, more heat accumulates in the oceans, sea-level keeps rising as glaciers and ice caps melt, and phenological indicators from many regions demonstrate disruptions to the seasonality of biological activity. And as these changes occur, world population keeps increasing, at a rate of ~240,000 people per day, most of whom will grow up to be subsistence or small-scale agriculturalists, who will be just as vulnerable to climatic anomalies as late prehistoric/early historic societies were. Climatologists, and other environmental scientists have a responsibility to ensure that the public, and the politicians they elect, fully understand these issues so that they can better appreciate the consequences of inaction over controlling greenhouse gas emissions.
