MEMORANDUM

DATE: August 12, 2013
FROM: College of Education Human Subjects Review Coordinators
TO: Doctoral Students Using Human Subjects Research Methods
RE: CITI Training (Collaborative University Institutional Review Board Training Initiative)

When you submit your Human Subjects Review materials (Doctoral Form D-3A, Consent Form, and Abstract) to the Office of Academic Affairs, you must also submit documentation of having taken the online course, which is a requirement of the University Institutional Review Board.

You can access this site at the following address:
http://www.umass.edu/research/human-subjects-trainingciti-training-course

You need to complete all of the following modules under the Social/Behavior Research area (Group 2):

- Introduction
- History and Ethical Principles – SBR
- Defining Research with Human Subjects – SBR
- The Regulations and the Social Behavioral Sciences – SBR
- Assessing Risk in Social Behavioral Sciences
- Informed Consent
- Privacy and Confidentiality - SBR
- Conflicts of Interest in Research Involving Human Subjects
- University of Massachusetts