(American Dance Legend, Martha Graham Dance, Comes to the Fine Arts Center)

On Wednesday, October 19th, the Fine Arts Center and area audiences will be graced with the innovative, primal artistic force of the Martha Graham Dance Company. The evening's program will include Graham's Diversion of Angels, Errand into the Maze and Sketches from Chronicle.

Martha Graham's personal movement philosophies stemmed from her fascination with the origins of humanity—in her principle of pelvic contraction and release, she found a way of divulging the deepest truths, emotions best evoked through physicality. Graham's choreography grew out of those movement ideas and ranged widely in topic, from the mythical, psychological archetypes (roles she felt people daily, unknowingly, act out), to modern art, religious persecution, and the austere, independent American spirit. In collaborations with the twentieth century's major artistic minds, including Aaron Copland and Isamu Noguchi, she brought modern dance to the world's attention and in 1976, President Gerald Ford gave Graham the United States' highest civilian honor, the Medal of Freedom, declaring her a "national treasure." She was the first dancer and choreographer to receive this honor.

Receiving international acclaim from audiences in over 50 countries throughout North and South America, Europe, Africa, Asia, and the Middle East and hailed by Anna Kisselgoff, Dance Critic in Chief of The New York Times as “one of the great companies of the world”, Martha Graham is a true American original who’s created an art form and repertory of nearly 200 works – putting her creative output on par with Picasso and Stravinsky.

Named Dancer of the Century by TIME Magazine in 1998, Graham has taught and inspired many of the great modern ballet choreographers.
