The Fine Arts Center 2003 - 2004 season in review

July
The Fine Arts Center celebrates the power of dance music to transport us to new worlds. From the vibrant melodies of Latin American folk music, to the jazz improvisation of a contemporary ensemble, the concerts at the Fine Arts Center are sure to offer challenge, healing, cultural exploration, celebration, nostalgia, social justice, and civic engagement. The Fine Arts Center is an exceptional community resource.

The transformation of the Fine Arts Center Plaza into a dramatic urban stage where the curtain draws to a close on the Fine Arts Center's 28th season, I applaud the vast and varied cast of sponsors, donors, patrons, and friends. The success of this season is a tribute to the remarkable generosity of our community. The Fine Arts Center is truly a center for the arts that serves to educate, inform, inspire, communicate, reflect, entertain, and connect the human heart, soul, and mind. The Fine Arts Center is an exceptional community resource, and I extend my deepest appreciation to the people who make it possible.

The Fine Arts Center Friends of Dance welcome World of Dance, an international performers' exchange and competition tour that has drawn attention to the power of dance as an international language.

The Fine Arts Center hosts a special exhibition of images projected on the gallery's exposed brick wall. The installation will be accompanied by discussions of images projected on the gallery's exposed brick wall. The exhibition is a collaboration of the Center for the Arts and the Department of Communication. The exhibition will be open to students and the general public through April.

The Fine Arts Center offers a unique opportunity for students to be a part of a national conversation about the arts in public education. The exhibition is open to students and the general public.

The Fine Arts Center celebrates the power of dance music to transport us to new worlds. From the vibrant melodies of Latin American folk music, to the jazz improvisation of a contemporary ensemble, the concerts at the Fine Arts Center are sure to offer challenge, healing, cultural exploration, celebration, nostalgia, social justice, and civic engagement. The Fine Arts Center is an exceptional community resource.

The transformation of the Fine Arts Center Plaza into a dramatic urban stage where the curtain draws to a close on the Fine Arts Center's 28th season, I applaud the vast and varied cast of sponsors, donors, patrons, and friends. The success of this season is a tribute to the remarkable generosity of our community. The Fine Arts Center is truly a center for the arts that serves to educate, inform, inspire, communicate, reflect, entertain, and connect the human heart, soul, and mind. The Fine Arts Center is an exceptional community resource, and I extend my deepest appreciation to the people who make it possible.

The Fine Arts Center offers a unique opportunity for students to be a part of a national conversation about the arts in public education. The exhibition is open to students and the general public.
We seek to engage and inspire through a broad array of exemplary performances, exhibitions, and educational programs.