National Organization:

Phi Sigma Kappa is a lifelong brotherhood dedicated to the betterment of the individual, the university community, and our world, by giving its members opportunities to develop leadership skills, participate in service to others, achieve academic excellence, and experience cultural diversity and practice personal integrity.

While all fraternities subscribe to a strong set of values and ideals, Phi Sigma Kappa actively promotes to and educates its members on incorporating those values into their daily lives. Our creative and unique educational initiatives for leadership development are a step ahead of many other groups. The Fraternity holds an annual undergraduate leadership and training conference each summer for more than 300 chapter officers, as well as an annual emerging leaders' conference for a select group of our top student leaders. The Fraternity also holds eight regional leadership training institutes around the United States each January that attracts nearly 400 student members. In addition to providing information on undergraduate chapter management, our regional and national conferences touch base on topics like career planning, values and ethics, leadership development, personal financial planning, community service and scholarship.
