

the Office of Programs & Services for ALANA Students (OPSAS) presents

National Black Student Leadership Development Conference

January 7 - 10, 2010

OPSAS will be sending a select group of students to this remarkable conference. Students must first submit an application followed by an interview to be considered as a UMass representative. Applications will be in room 302 Student Union Building and online at www.umass.edu/multiculturalaffairs.

A Circle of Hope:
From Vision to Reality
Information & Registration

Application Due: October 15, 2009
Interviews: October 19 - 22, 2009

The Conference is the vehicle utilized to create and empower this diverse collegiate leadership group, who attend predominantly white colleges and universities. NBSLDC is an intensive interactive three-day leadership experience. Held annually in January, this Conference provides the participants with an opportunity to increase their effectiveness as leaders. The Conference provides participants with information, exercises, and activities about leadership styles, practices, and theories. The Conference provides an arena for the observation, critical thinking, discussion, and group interaction, while affording participants avenues for networking and interacting with national and international leaders. Business organizations, educational institutions, and governmental agencies are also invited to meet with these selected leaders.

For more information on the conference: www.selg.com or visit OPSAS room 302 Student Union Bldg