Catherine Deutsch is maîtresse de conférences (Associate Professor) in the Music Department of Paris-Sorbonne University. She received a binational PhD in 2007 from Paris-Sorbonne University and Alma Mater Studiorium, University of Bologna. In 2008, she was attached researcher at the Centre d'Etudes Supérieures de la Renaissance of Tours. In 2010, she was awarded a post-doctorate fellowship from the Institut Emilie du Châtelet at the Centre de Musique Baroque de Versailles. In 2010 she co-founded the Cercle de recherche interdisiplinaire sur les musiciennes with Raphaëlle Legrand, Hyacinthe Ravet, Bertrand Porot and Florence Launay, an interdisciplinary research group that focuses on women in music. She is currently editing the complete work of Giovanni de Macque for the Istituto italiano per la Storia della musica in Rome.