

University of Massachusetts Amherst School of Nursing Vision

The School of Nursing is a force for innovation, learning and discovery in preparing culturally proficient nurses for leadership in health for a global society.

Programs of Study

This application is for those who are interested in pursuing one of the following Graduate Programs at the UMass Amherst School of Nursing:

- Doctorate of Nursing Practice (DNP) Online
Specialty tracks: Family Nurse Practitioner, Public Health Nurse Leader
- Master of Science (MS) Clinical Nurse Leader (CNL) Online

Master Of Science Degree Program in Nursing

The Master of Science Degree Program in Nursing at the University of Massachusetts Amherst builds on previous nursing education and clinical experience and prepares students for the role of Clinical Nurse Leader.

The Nursing Program is accredited by the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education (CCNE), a national nursing education accrediting body. The School of Nursing program is accredited by the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education (CCNE).

The Master of Science Degree Program strengthens health care delivery by teaching the advanced knowledge and skills needed to provide comprehensive, across-the-life-span nursing services to individuals, families, and groups. The program's teaching, inquiry, and outreach prepare professional nurses to think critically and reflectively, prepare to serve a culturally diverse population, and manage care autonomously while holistically assessing and treating both health care needs and human responses to illness. The program also promotes social accountability: students are educated and encouraged to work for reform in the health care system at the community, regional, and national levels.

Doctorate of Nursing Practice (DNP)

The DNP program prepares advanced practice nurses at the highest level. The American Association of Colleges of Nursing (AACN), the professional organization for higher education in nursing has mandated a transition from the current Master of Science (MS) degree for advanced practice nurses to the Doctorate of Nursing Practice (DNP) degree by the year 2015. This professional nursing preparation will include advanced coursework in leadership, research translation, clinical knowledge and skills. This proposed change was driven by evolving nursing roles in an increasingly complex health care system, the flood of new scientific knowledge, and ongoing concerns about the quality and outcomes of patient care.

The School prepares DNP graduates in two areas: Family Nurse Practitioner and Public Health Nurse Leader. It is a post-Baccalaureate program; however, a post-masters entry is available and involves a review of previous coursework and training through a portfolio process.

Graduates of the DNP program will practice at the highest level. Specific goals of the program are to graduate nurses who will:

- engage in nursing practice using the advanced knowledge from nursing and related disciplines to improve health outcomes,

- provide leadership and collaborate with leaders in other professions for change in systems of care,
- synthesize and translate evidence from nursing and other disciplines to manage complex health problems, and
- provide culturally proficient care to respond to health disparities and societal needs.

Note: Accepted applicants to the Graduate programs are expected to attend a mandatory one week on campus orientation during the summer that they are admitted. Dates to be posted on Nursing website.

We, the graduate students of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, hereby affirm that graduate students do not lie, cheat, or steal, or willingly tolerate those who do.

We do not plagiarize the work of others, falsify data, or knowingly allow false data to be generated or published with our compliance.

We do not harass or discriminate against others for reasons of race (phenotype), creed, sexual orientation, or political belief, or keep faith with those who do.

American Nurses' Association Code of Ethics

1. The nurse, in all professional relationships, practices with compassion and respect for the inherent dignity, worth, and uniqueness of every individual, unrestricted by considerations of social or economic status, personal attributes, or the nature of health problems.
2. The nurse's primary commitment is to the patient, whether an individual, family, group, or community. The nurse promotes, advocates for, and strives to protect the health, safety, and rights of the patient.
3. The nurse is responsible and accountable for individual nursing practice and determines the appropriate delegation of tasks consistent with the nurse's obligation to provide optimum patient care.
4. The nurse owes the same duties to self as to others, including the responsibility to preserve integrity and safety, to maintain competence, and to continue personal and professional growth.
5. The nurse participates in establishing, maintaining, and improving health care environments and conditions of employment conducive to the provision of quality health care and consistent with the values of the profession through individual and collective action.
6. The nurse participates in the advancement of the profession through contributions to practice, education, administration, and knowledge development.
7. The nurse collaborates with other health professionals and the public in promoting community, national, and international efforts to meet health needs.
8. The profession of nursing, as represented by associations and their members, is responsible for articulating nursing values, for maintaining the integrity of the profession and its practice, and for shaping social policy.

Voted on and accepted by the ANA House of Delegates on June 30, 2001. The Code of Ethics for Nurses is available from American Nurses Publishing at (800) 637-0323 or www.nursesbooks.org
