Question #1: Are we required to bid on Items #5 and #6, the installation of the dry well and associated Filtration Drain? This is really a different trade and we do not perform this work. This work would be performed by an excavation contractor. Previous whole home reverse osmosis systems we have installed had the homeowners hire whoever they wanted to perform this work.

Answer #1: No you are not required to bid on items 5 and 6

Question #2: The Reverse Osmosis Systems described in Items 8 and 8A on the Bid Response Sheet are really typical key components that become part of customized reverse osmosis systems. The actual equipment specified that will become the total system specification is dependent on many design factors, including but not limited to, the water quality test results (types and amount of contaminants in the water), the well production capacity, the intended end use of the product water and the anticipated water usage. Actual system design is completed on a case by case basis. We can quote on the systems as specified in this bid response sheet, however, we feel that we should bring this information to your attention.

Answer #2: thank you
