

SCHOLARSHIP APPLICATION ANNOUNCEMENT
Joseph Rodman Scholarship

Resource Economics Students
Food Marketing Economics
Managerial Economics

The Joseph Rodman Scholarship will be awarded in May (up to four scholarships, total amount awarded of $2000). Mr. Rodman, who was very active in the New England food industry, endowed this scholarship fund. The criteria for the scholarship are that the student plans to pursue a career in the distribution segments of the food industry (or in another line of business) in New England; personal character; academic achievement; and financial need.

Resource Economics students who will be enrolled at UMass Amherst in the fall may apply for the scholarship by submitting the following application materials to Julie Caswell (215 Stockbridge Hall):

1. A letter of application addressed to Dr. Julie A. Caswell, Chairperson of Rodman Scholarship Committee. The letter should include basic biographical information, a brief statement of your academic program (field of study, academic achievement, activities, etc.), a discussion of your work experience, and a statement of financial need (if appropriate).
2. An essay of approximately 200 words explaining your interest in a food industry or business career.
3. A copy of your resume.

Applications are due by April 30.
