Undergraduate Advising &
Global Education Requirement
Handbook

FOR MAJORS IN:

Anthropology, Communication, Economics, Journalism, Legal Studies,
Political Science, Psychology, Social Thought and Political Economy
& Sociology

This handbook provides majors in the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences (SBS) with detailed information regarding College requirements and academic advising services. It is also intended to inform students who are considering a major in the College, especially students interested in becoming majors in Communication or Journalism about SBS requirements.

Academic Advising

For students in the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences, regular academic advising is an extremely important component of your undergraduate education. To help you succeed as a student and prepare for your future, we encourage you to meet with your academic adviser at least once every semester. Your adviser will assist you in making informed choices about your course selection and discuss your progress toward completing requirements. He or she will also answer questions you may have about your major, and can refer you to other University or College offices if you need additional assistance. There are faculty and staff advisers in your department and in the Arts and Sciences Advising Center.

DEPARTMENTAL REQUIREMENTS AND ADVISING

If you have questions related to requirements for your major, or would like to talk with a faculty member in your department about internships, study abroad opportunities, tutoring or other issues, please contact the Undergraduate Office in your department:

College of Social and Behavioral Sciences

The Global Education Requirement for the B.A.

The College curriculum provides a framework for students to gain knowledge about individuals, societies and cultures. It will provide exposure to diverse cultural perspectives essential to the development of an understanding of contemporary society and oneself. Coursework is generally foreign language study combined with related cultural courses that have some focus on contemporary topics of the 20th and/or 21st century.

All students in Anthropology, Communication, Economics, Journalism, Legal Studies, Political Science, Sociology, and Social Thought and Political Economy, and all B.A. students in Psychology, are required to satisfy the Global Education Requirement.

There are four options for completion of the requirement. All options require at least 15 credits; all require that at least six of the 15 credits be in a foreign language starting at a level above current ability.

IMPORTANT NOTES ON THE GLOBAL EDUCATION REQUIREMENT:

Students must declare an option at the time they declare a major in the College by completing a "Requirement and Option Declaration Form." The completed form must be submitted to the Arts and Sciences Advising Center. The option may be changed at any time, at the same office. Students who do not declare a Global Education option at the time they declare their major will have an option selected for them by the Associate Dean. Those students can change the selected option by completing and submitting a "Requirement and Option Declaration Form"

All credits earned to satisfy the Global Education requirement, except those credits taken to meet the Certificate Option, must be in addition to credits earned to satisfy General Education and major requirements. All credits must be graded, they cannot be taken on a Pass/Fail basis. Credits can be earned in study abroad programs, with the approval of a College adviser in the Arts and Sciences Advising Center, or a Certificate Program Adviser (if the Certificate Option is chosen).

Students with documented learning disabilities that impair language acquisition, and students who are certified by Disability Services Office as having significant hearing impairment that seriously limits the auditory reception of language, may substitute non-language courses for language courses. The course substitutions must be approved by the College's Associate Dean.

Whether foreign language courses start at a level above current ability, should be determined by high school coursework and University placement exams.

Credit earned through Advanced Placement, CLEP, an SAT II exam, or University foreign language placement testing may be applied to the Global Education requirement.

Double-major students will not be subject to the Global Education requirement if their primary major is in the College of Humanities and Fine Arts, the College of Natural Sciences and Mathematics, the College of Engineering, the College of Food and Natural Resources, the Isenberg School of Management, the School of Nursing, the School of Public Health and Health Sciences, or the Bachelor of Science degree program in the Department of Psychology.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE PLACEMENT

If you plan to continue studying the same language you studied in high school, you should take a foreign language placement exam soon as you arrive at the University. Discuss the test result with your adviser to determine the appropriate level of your foreign language course, and enroll in that course your first semester. Placement exams are offered during summer orientation for first year students. Transfer students should contact the Arts & Sciences Advising Center for more information about foreign language testing. If you are beginning a new language no placement exam is necessary.

THE GLOBAL EDUCATION REQUIREMENT MAY BE SATISFIED BY COMPLETING EITHER THE FOREIGN LANGUAGE OPTION, REGIONAL STUDY OPTION, THE INDIVIDUALIZED STUDY OPTION, OR THE CERTIFICATE OPTION.

OPTION ONE:
FOREIGN LANGUAGE OPTION

REGIONAL STUDY OPTION

6 credits of one foreign language starting at a level above current ability, and 9 credits, in any combination of additional regional foreign language courses or courses taught in English which focus on the contemporary culture of the region of the world where the foreign language being studied is used. These 9 credits may be chosen from courses in language departments, or in the departments of History, Economics, Anthropology, Political Science, or a related department. The regions, and the associated languages and courses are listed on pages 7 -12. The courses listed for this option focus on contemporary cultural understanding and are regularly offered. Experimental, special topics and Five College courses are not included in this list, but may be used to fulfill this requirement with the approval of a college adviser. Additionally, ALL courses offered by the foreign language departments that are conducted in the foreign language may be applied to the regional study option as long as they are within the same regional area. (Even though these language courses are not individually listed on the Approved Course List, no special approval is required).

OPTION THREE:

INDIVIDUALIZED REGIONAL OR INTERNATIONAL STUDY OPTION

Students can create a regional or international study option different from the choices previously listed. This must include 6 credits of one foreign language starting at a level above current ability, and 9 credits, in any combination of additional foreign language courses, or courses that focus upon a region or country, or on international topics. The credits may be chosen from courses in a language department or in the departments of History, Political Science, Economics, Communication, Anthropology, the Isenberg School of Management, or another related department. The six credits of foreign language may be earned by completing six credits of foreign language taught at the University, or by completing four 1.5 credit courses of one language not offered at the University, using the Five College Self Instruction Language Program. This option requires that the student create a plan of study and receive prior approval from a College adviser in the Arts and Sciences Advising Center.

INDIVIDUALIZED PLAN APPROVE BY COLLEGE ADVISER:

ADVISER NAME : _____

EXAMPLES OF THE INDIVIDUALIZED STUDY OPTION

If you would like to study French and focus on Canada as your regional area, your 15-credit Global Education requirement might look like this: French 230 Intermediate French I, French 240 Intermediate French II, History 344 History of Canada, Political Science 249 Canadian Politics, Geography 410 Arctic Regions.

If you would like to study Native American topics, your 15-credit Global Education requirement might look like this: French 110 Elementary French I, French 120 Elementary French II, Anthropology 197B Introduction to Native American Indian Studies, English 166 Native American Literature, History 170 Indian Peoples of North America.

These include credits earned to satisfy General Education and major requirements.

Global Education FAQ's

Q. - When should I officially declare my Global Education Option (i.e complete the the GER option declaration form)?

A. - You must declare your GER option at the same time you complete your change of major form officially declaring a major in the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences.

Q. - Do students who are working towards becoming a major Communication or Journalism have to choose a Global Education Option?

A. - No, but when they are officially accepted into Communication or Journalism, they must declare their option. However, it is wise to understand the Global Education Requirement, consider an option and begin completing appropriate courses that can be used to satisfy the requirement. Students should read the SBS Advising Handbook and talk to an advisor in the Pre-major Advising Office for more information.

Q. - What is the best way to get started on the Global Education Requirement?

A. - First decide what option you will choose when you declare your major in SBS. Think about what foreign language you would like to study or what area of the world interests you. Look at the different options and decide which one is best suited for you. After that you can start taking some coursework to complete your option.

Q. - Can a student change their Global Education option as their academic interests change?

A. - Yes, they can change it at any time by completing a new Option Declaration Form in the Advising Office, Machmer E-20.

Q. - Can students from other Arts and Sciences Colleges opt for the Global Education Requirement instead of the 4 semesters of foreign language?

A. - No, the Global Education Requirement is only for students whose primary major is in the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences. Students with majors in the College of Humanities and Fine Arts or the College of Natural Sciences and Mathematics must complete their own College's requirements.

Q. - If a student is a double-major, do all College requirements in each College have to be completed?

A. - All students must complete the College requirements for their primary major. If the secondary major is in SBS, the Global Education Requirement will not need to be fulfilled; HOWEVER, if a student is in the double-degree program, meaning that s/ he is working toward two different degrees resulting in at least a total of 150 credits, the College requirements for each College must be completed. Additionally, students with a primary or secondary major in Humanities and Fine Arts must complete all of the HFA College requirements.

Q. - If the student has taken 2 semesters of foreign language elsewhere, can those semesters be counted toward the Global Education Requirement?

A. - Yes, if those courses were taken for college-level credit and are accepted by the University (it is the student's responsibility to have grades transferred from other schools to the University). Students who have taken 4 or more years of language in high school or are native speakers of certain languages may take a language test at UMass to see if they can be awarded credit for 230 and 240 level language courses.

Q. - Can a student take more than 6 credits of foreign language under the Regional Studies Option?

A. - Yes, under the Regional Studies Option a student can take either 6, 9, 12 or 15 credits of foreign language. 6 credits must be in one language, but the remaining 9 credits can be taken in any combination of additional courses in the same language, courses in a different foreign language within the regional area, or cultural courses from the regional course list.

Q. - Can upper-level (300 or above) literature or cultural courses that are taught in a foreign language count towards fulfilling a Regional Studies Option, even though they are not on the Approved Course List?

A. - Yes, any course taught in a foreign language that is part your chosen regional area can be used, even though they are not explicitly listed on the Approved Course List.

Examples: Spanish 320 - Literature of Spain I can be used for either the Latin American Region OR the Southern European Region. Hebrew 361 - Modern Hebrew Literature I can be used for the Middle Eastern Region. French 388- Francophone Civilization Outside of France can be used for the Southern European Region OR the African Region

Q. - Can a student "double-dip" by fulfilling Global Education requirements along with major or General Education requirements?

A. - The only option that allows "double-dipping" is the Certificate Option. Students who complete an approved Certificate Program may use that program to meet their Global Education Requirement, and courses used for the Certificate may also be used for General Education or Major requirements. For all other options, courses taken to satisfy the Global Education Requirement must be in addition to courses that meet General Education or Major requirements, though the Associate Dean will consider special arrangements on a case-by-case basis particularly for transfer students. Students should make an appointment with the Associate Dean in Machmer E-24 to explore this possibility. Courses taken to satisfy the Global Education Requirement may also be used toward a student's minor (if the department approves the list of courses), and may be used to fulfill a certificate requirements.

Q. - Can Global Education courses be taken pass/fail?

A. - No. All courses used to satisfy the Global Education Requirement must be taken for a letter grade.

Q. - What happens if a student does not complete a Global Education Option Declaration Form?

A. - The College has no way of knowing whether the student has completed the requirement, cannot track the students progress in completing the requirement, or clear the student for graduation. Because of this, students who do not complete an Option Declaration Form will have an option selected for them by the Associate Dean. The selected option can be changed by students at any time by completing the Option Declaration Form.

Q. - Is the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences Global Education requirement the same or related to the University's General Education Global Diversity requirement?

A. - No, the College requirement and University General Education requirement are completely different. Both must be satisfied by completion of different courses.
