The HPM MPH degree program is in the process of revising its practicum requirements to reflect changes in the practicum as required by the Council on Education in Public Health, which is the accrediting body for graduate public health degrees. Students who matriculated in Fall 2017 must meet the following practicum requirements:

1. Documented log of at least 80 hours of work within a practicum site. The hour log can be found within the current HPP Practicum Guide and must be provide to the student’s faculty advisor. This reflects a change from the prior requirement of 200 hours.

2. A paper (10-12 page in length) describing how the practicum experience added to the student’s overall academic program. This paper must address how the practicum addressed at least 5 Concentration-specific competencies found in the Appendix of the Practicum Guide.

3. Enrollment and completion of HPP698.

Students must work with their faculty advisor to ensure understanding of these requirements and plans to meet them, including determining the semester for enrollment in HPP698 and establishing a timeline for delivering the work products.
