

LGBT Terminology Matching Game

Bisexual People	Homosexual	Sexual Prejudice
Crossdressers	Intersex People	Transgender People
Heterosexism	Queer	Transsexual People
Gender Identity	Gender Expression	Gender Assignment

Individual who are romantically and physically attracted to some people of different genders.	A clinical term for gay men and sometimes lesbians. Although the word is still frequently used in the media and by some older gay men, it is largely rejected by members of the gay community.	Negative attitudes toward individuals because of their actual or perceived sexual orientation.
People who, regardless of motivation, wear clothes, makeup, etc. that are considered by the culture to be appropriate for another gender but not one's own.	People whose sex chromosomes, secondary sex characteristics, and/or genitalia are determined to be neither exclusively male nor female.	Most commonly used as an umbrella term for people whose gender identity and/or expression is sometimes or always different from their assigned gender at birth.
The societal, institutional, and individual beliefs and practices that privilege heterosexuals and subordinate and disparage lesbians, gay men, and bisexuals.	Traditionally a pejorative term for LGBT people, the word has been reclaimed by some LGBT people to describe themselves. If used by heterosexuals who are not allies, it is still considered derogatory.	People whose gender identity is different from their assigned gender at birth. They often undergo hormone treatments and gender reassignment surgeries to align their anatomy with their core identity, but not all desire or are able to do so.
An individual's sense of their own gender.	An individual's presentation of their gender through behavior, clothing, hairstyle, voice, body characteristics, etc.	An individual's presumed gender at birth based upon biological sex.

Developed by:
Brett-Genny Janiczek Beemyn
The Stonewall Center, University of Massachusetts-Amherst
413-545-4826; brettgenny@stuaf.umass.edu