

SCIENCE, TECHNOLOGY AND SOCIETY INITIATIVE

at the University of Massachusetts Amherst

2008
Colloquium Series

series schedule

March 31, 2008

Nanotechnology and Environmental Ethics

12 noon, Thompson 620

Ronald Sandler, Assistant Professor of Philosophy, Northeastern University

April 15, 2008

Nanoethics: Ethical and Social Implications of Nanotechnology

4:45 pm, Conte A 110-111 (note location change)

James Moor, Professor of Philosophy, Dartmouth College

Organized by the IGERT Program in Nanotechnology Innovation

April 16, 2008

Black Houston: Digital Storytelling

7:30pm, Isenberg School of Management 137

Carroll Parrot Blue, scholar and filmmaker

*Organized by the Interdepartmental Program in Film Studies;
co-sponsored by the Center for Public Policy and Administration*

April 30, 2008

Equality in Internet Access: Broadband in Massachusetts

1:30pm, Lecture, Thompson 620

10am -12pm, Public Town Hall Forum, Campus Center 165-169

Sharon Eisner Gillett, Commissioner, MA Department of Telecommunications and Cable

co-sponsored by the National Center for Digital Government

May 6, 2008

Aging in Place with the ASSIST Environment

2pm, Thompson 620

Cynthia Jacelon, Assistant Professor of Nursing, UMass

Allen Hanson, Professor of Computer Science, UMass

co-sponsored by the National Center for Digital Government

The Science, Technology, and Society Initiative (STS) at the University of Massachusetts Amherst is a priority area of the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences and is based at the Center for Public Policy and Administration. The STS Initiative advances multidisciplinary collaboration among the natural, physical and social sciences, engineering and public policy and is a catalyst for innovative, collaborative research.

For more information about STS, please visit www.umass.edu/sts.

With thanks to our sponsors

