Dear Students,

This is just a quick reminder that our new online UMass bookstore with Amazon does not currently accept UCard debit for purchases.

See: https://www.umass.edu/ucard/content/new-online-book-store for the latest information.

The UCard Office is currently working with both Amazon and CBord, our campus card system vendor, to develop a solution for the future that would allow students to use their UCard debit accounts to make textbook purchases online from Amazon.

However, until such integration is in place, students and parents should not deposit funds to the UCard debit account for textbook purchases. Instead they should pay for Amazon purchases via debit card, credit card, or some other form of payment currently accepted by Amazon.

If you are a student and already have funds in your UCard debit account for fall book purchases and would like a refund of those funds, you will need to close out your debit account.

See: http://www.umass.edu/ucard/content/close-debit-account for information about how to close your account. Once your account is closed and your refund processed, you may request to have your account reopened.

If you do not require a refund, any funds in your UCard debit account will continue to roll over from semester to semester and year to year, as they have in the past. The UCard continues to be accepted as payment virtually everywhere on campus, as well as select off-campus venues.

See: http://www.umass.edu/ucard for more information about where the card is accepted.

Please feel free to contact the UCard Office at ucard@admin.umass.edu or (413) 545-0197 with any questions or concerns you may have regarding this or other UCard-related matters.

Thank you.
