

Thought Wisps

Inspired by the WMWP logo

Coffee cup before me
On tippy desk top,
I hear her incisive prompt,
Hold pen to paper,
And watch grow
Two slender lines of thought,
Neatly parallel,
Irritatingly disconnected.

Letting go of the Idea of form,
I trace lines of
Floating feelings,
Thought wisps
Tickling the dust
Out of my mind,
Whimsical quilt stitches
Softly connected to quill,
Each strengthening
Those initial slender lines.

Then in a rush of excitement,
Joy swirling,
Creativity whirling,
I find my center of gravity,
Circle of brilliance on peacock tail –

My feather is complete.

*– Astrid Linstrom
July 24, 2007*