

Digging into Digital Storytelling

The Western Massachusetts Writing Project is offering a workshop for all English Language Arts and Content-area teachers that centers on the world of Digital Storytelling. The workshop sessions will feature hands-on experiences for creating and publishing multimedia stories that merge writing, imagery, and sound. This introduction to digital storytelling will be an excellent way for teachers to learn and use new technology with an eye toward integration in the classroom. Time will be allocated for discussing the pedagogical implications for the classroom.

Workshop will include:

- Opening address by WMWP Technology Liaison Kevin Hodgson on the value of digital storytelling with students
- Hands-on workshops
- Technology investigation
- Discussions of pedagogy

DATE: Saturday, April 4

PLACE: William E. Norris Elementary School,
Southampton

TIME: 9 a.m.—12:30 p.m.

COST: $30

Limit: 30 participants
(payment to WMWP reserves your space)

3 PDPs are available for participants

To register, contact WMWP at (413) 545-5466 or online at <http://www.umass.edu/wmwp/registration.html>

Or contact WMWP Tech Liaison Kevin Hodgson at dogtrax@gmail.com

Registration For WMWP Digging into Digital Storytelling Workshop

Your Name: _____

Your Email: _____

Your School: _____

Your School Address:

Your Home Address:

Home Phone: _____

Participants will be divided into one of two sessions. One session will use online digital storytelling applications and another will use PC desktop applications.

Please indicate your preference (although WMWP reserves the right to balance out the sessions)

____ I would prefer the session with online tools

____ I would prefer the session with desktop tools

(OPTIONAL) What software do you have available to you right now in your classroom?

Your registration will not be complete until we receive your check made payable to the University of Massachusetts. The cost is $30 per person.

Please send your payment to:

Western Massachusetts Writing Project
258 Bartlett Hall
University of Massachusetts
130 Hicks Way
Amherst, MA 01003-9269