

Information
For
Home-Schooled Students

Your application materials indicated that you have been home-schooled for some or all of your high school education.

Please note that home-schooled students are required to provide the university with proof of graduation in one of the following ways:

- An official final transcript from the local school district
- An official final transcript from a home school association or agency
- An official GED/HiSet score report
- An official college transcript(s) showing successful completion of 27 college credits

In addition, home-schooled students who have completed AP exams and/or college coursework must request that those official score reports and transcripts be sent directly to the Admissions Office.

If you have any questions about these requirements, please contact the Office of Undergraduate Admissions at 413-545-0222.
