The Civic Engagement and Service-Learning Faculty Fellowship is for faculty who would like to develop new learning opportunities for their students in collaboration with off-campus community partners. Are you a faculty member who would like to:

- provide students with an experiential and deeper understanding of the world in which they live and their power to be positive agents of change?
- integrate community engagement and service-learning into your course?
- enhance your engaged research with a community partner you already work with, and strengthen the relationship between your engaged scholarship and your teaching?
- develop or adapt a course that would meet requirements for the Certificate in Civic Engagement and Public Service?

If you are interested in pursuing any of the above questions, apply to become a Civic Engagement and Service-Learning Faculty Fellow:

Civic Engagement and Service-Learning Faculty Fellows:

- Connect with like-minded faculty from departments across campus.
- Explore methods for mutually beneficial relationships with communities.
- Learn to apply a high-impact, transformative pedagogy for social change relevant to any discipline.
- Help your department contribute to all four student learning goals of the UMass Strategic Plan: Community, Agency, Responsibility, and Proficiency.

CESL Fellows attend monthly meetings, and work on new or existing syllabi with a diverse group of faculty from across campus. Fellows are awarded a $1000 stipend, transferred to their department, that can be used as research funds or as one-time additional compensation.

NEW THIS YEAR: If you are interested in developing a Service-Learning course taught at the UMass Amherst Center at Springfield or at the Mt. Ida campus $3000 stipends are available for those types of courses.
