

Our honored colleague and CSCORE inspiration Ronald Fredrickson passed peacefully at home on January 2nd. The entire CSCORE community will greatly miss his leadership, inspiration, generosity and kindness.

Ronald H. Fredrickson was an honored colleague and an inspiration for starting CSCORE. Serving as a Counseling Psychology faculty member at UMass Amherst from 1962-1992, Ron was a beloved colleague and mentor to former CSCORE Director and founder Jay Carey, and he was a Professor of Career Development for current CSCORE Director Carey Dimmitt. While at UMass Amherst, Ron also served the College of Education as Department Chair and Associate Dean of Academic Affairs.

Ron always did the hard work that was needed for success, and did so with ongoing humility and good spirits. He was consistently kind, generous, and thoughtful of others. We are grateful for his support of and contributions to UMass Amherst, to our profession, and to CSCORE.
