The Department of Hospitality and Tourism Management is proposing to revise the requirements for its undergraduate major. The proposed revisions are intended to bring the curriculum more in line with other programs in the Isenberg School. The main changes are to replace two currently required courses with courses that are more focused on management, and to replace the current 15 credits of "HTM Upper Level Electives" with 15 credits from an expanded list of "HTM/Business Electives" that includes an option to take 9 credits in a foreign language. Also, students currently have a choice of three courses that can be used to meet the Integrative Experience requirement. In the proposed revision, only one of the courses will serve as the integrative experience (the other courses will continue to be offered as electives). The proposal includes a table that shows how the new requirements fit with accreditation standards.

At its meeting on January 20, 2016, the Academic Matters Council voted unanimously to recommend Faculty Senate approval of the proposed revision of the requirements for the major in the Department of Hospitality and Tourism Management. It was submitted as proposal #2374 in the Course and Curriculum Management System.

The Department of Hospital and Tourism Management proposed to Revise a Degree Program. The proposed curriculum categorizes the departmental requirements somewhat differently from the current categories. This is done for two purposes. One is to more clearly reflect the groupings. The second is to bring the way curriculum is organized more in line with other departments in the Isenberg School. The three categories are: B.S. Core Requirements, HTM Core Requirements, and HTM/Business Electives. Appendix A details the proposed new curriculum in comparison to our current curriculum using these categories. The following describes the substantive changes in contrast to our current curriculum. Also, the proposed curricular revisions make two changes to the General Education requirements. The proposal eliminates the requirement that HTM students take Nutrition 130 or Kinesiology 110 or Food Science 150 as a required general education course. As a management discipline, this requirement is out of date and its elimination is consistent with standard practice among our peer institutions. In addition, the proposal changes the departmental Integrative Experience capstone course requirement.

The Academic Priorities Council voted to recommend approval of the proposal at its meeting on March 24, 2016.

MOTION: That the Faculty Senate approve the Revision of the Requirements for the Major in the Department of Hospitality and Tourism Management, as presented in Sen. Doc. No. 16-047.
Please describe your proposal.

Course Categories: The proposed curriculum categorizes the departmental requirements somewhat differently from our current categories. This is done for two purposes. One is to more clearly reflect the groupings. The second is to bring the way we organize our curriculum more in line with other departments in the Isenberg School. The three categories are: B.S. Core Requirements, HTM Core Requirements, and HTM/Business Electives. Appendix A details the proposed new curriculum in comparison to our current curriculum using these categories. The following describes the substantive changes in contrast to our current curriculum.

General Education: The proposed curricular revisions make two changes to our General Education requirements.

1. This proposal eliminates the requirement that HTM students take Nutrition 130 or Kinesiology 110 or Food Science 150 as a required general education course. As a management discipline, this requirement is out of date and its elimination is consistent with standard practice among our peer institutions.

2. In addition, this proposal changes our departmental Integrative Experience capstone course requirement. At present, HTM students can choose between three IE approved capstone courses (Ht-Mgt 433, 444 or 455) each of which takes a somewhat different approach to our industry. Under this proposal, all students will take the same IE capstone course – Ht-Mgt 444 which focuses on the entire industry from a strategic management perspective. To more accurately reflect this focus, it will be re-named. The other two courses (Ht-Mgt 433 and 455) will no longer qualify as IE courses but may be taken by students as upper level electives. This change more closely aligns our curricular requirements with a focus on managerial competencies. It also allows for a more efficient utilization of faculty resources. The request to make this change to the IE requirement will be submitted to the General Education Council for its approval.

HTM Core Requirements: As revamped, this category retains its industry focus including experiential learning but is modernized in a number of ways.

3. This proposal eliminates one of our lab courses, Ht-Mgt 150 Food Production Management. This is consistent with the practices of our peer institutions. Because this is a lab course, its elimination has the ancillary benefit of easing scheduling difficulties for students particularly those who transfer into our department as juniors by making it easier for them to complete their degrees in a timely manner.

4. While this proposal eliminates Ht-Mgt 150, it replaces it with another course in the same general field that possesses a more direct management focus: Ht-Mgt 250 Food Service Management.

5. New Required Course: Ht-Mgt 397M Service Experience Management. This course will be submitted for approval as a permanent course.

HTM Upper-Level Electives: This old category is replaced with a new category “HTM/Business Electives.” Here, students will be given broader latitude to take 15 credits of course work from an appropriate combination of 3 categories of courses. Students may choose to develop a level of proficiency in a foreign language by taking 9 credits of a foreign language (all in the same foreign language). Students may choose to take upper-level electives in HTM (300- or 400-level courses). Students may choose to take courses from an approved list of courses offered by other departments in the Isenberg School. Appendix A summarizes the changes between the current and proposed curriculum. This proposal eliminated two 3-credit courses and adds two 3-credit courses so there is no change in the total credits students are required to complete for the degree. These revisions were reviewed in light of our ACPHA (i.e., accreditation) standards and therefore are in line with its requirements as illustrated in Appendix B.
Please describe the existing program requirements, listing all required courses and available electives, as well as any additional requirements, and continuation or admissions policies.

See Appendix A (Please refer to Proposal #2374 in the Course and Curriculum Management System.)

Please describe the requirements that you are proposing, listing course requirements, elective options, as well as any additional requirements, and continuation or admissions policies.

Proposes start date: Fall 2016
See Appendix A (Please refer to Proposal #2374 in the Course and Curriculum Management System.)

Please provide the rationale for these revisions.

The HTM department has a long history of producing excellent operations managers for the hospitality and tourism industry. Recruiters often describe them as hard working, roll up your sleeves, not afraid to get your hands dirty types of students and employees with strong work ethics. This emphasis on operations has served everyone well. But, it is no longer enough. In today’s global economy, the successful operation of an organization requires not only the thorough hands-on knowledge of the industry but also a profound capacity to lead an organization utilizing highly objective and effective decision making skills. The future of the field requires professionals who combine operations management with the capacity to lead in a global environment. Effective leaders possess the capacities to both envision and implement the most competitive strategies that leverage available resources to assure organizational success in the most efficient manner. HTM’s goal is to prepare its students to be the future generations of leaders in the Hospitality and Tourism arena. The department cannot achieve that goal with a dated curriculum.

The proposed curriculum changes that are currently being tailored represent a response to this new reality while taking advantage of the opportunity to more fully integrate the departmental course offerings with relevant curricula from the other Isenberg School of Management departments. The HTM department needs to continue to provide its students with the experiential base necessary to successfully lead the kinds of businesses and organizations that operate in the field of hospitality and tourism. But, the department also needs to prepare them to succeed in a global economy by encouraging them to pursue a foreign language.

The proposed curriculum changes also serve to ease some of the difficulties the department’s students sometimes encounter in graduating in a timely manner. While the department does accept students into our program directly as freshman, the majority of HTM graduates transfer into the department as sophomores or juniors. Particularly for the junior transfer students, the current programmatic requirements make it difficult for them to complete their degrees in four or even five years. Furthermore, the department is seeing a significant uptick in students who are pursuing a double major in HTM and another business discipline such as marketing. The number of total credits such students must complete significantly impairs their ability to graduate on time. The department has instituted one curriculum-related policy change in addition to the proposed changes to the degree requirements to better enable all students to graduate in a timely manner. That is, for students who are double-majors in another business discipline, HTM will accept Management 260 Introduction to Law in lieu of the departmental requirement of Ht-Mgt 320 Hospitality and Tourism Law.

Resources:

If this proposal requires no additional resources, say so and briefly explain why. If this proposal requires additional resources, explain how they will be paid for. For proposals involving instruction, indicate how many new enrollments are expected and whether the courses have room to accommodate them.

This proposal does not require additional resources. Some faculty members within the department will be given new teaching assignments. The addition of the foreign language option was approved after consultation with the department head of Languages, Literatures & Cultures to ensure they have the capacity to accommodate interested students. See Appendix C. (Please refer to Proposal #2374 in the Course and Curriculum Management System.)
