Volunteers Sought for a Study on Aging and Gait

More than 65 UMass Staff Members Sharing Creative Work at the Building Bridges

The Center for Women & Community (CWC) is inviting all to join the CWC Community Challenge during April, Sexual Assault Awareness month, to raise awareness and funds for sexual assault support and advocacy.

Artist Laylah Ali to Discuss Her Work on March 31

PERI to Host Book Launch for 'On the Trail of Capital Flight from Africa' on March 25

Open House for UMass Donahue Institute

Next-generation Phone Service to Replace Campus Phones in 2022

Debold Receives Marion J. Siegman Annual Award Lectureship

Kara Peterman Wins Milek Fellowship from American Institute of Steel Construction

2022-23 ISSR Scholars Announced

Vicarelli Receives Grant for Pandemic Recovery Research

2022-23 CRF Family Research Scholars Announced

Two Engineering Faculty Tapped for NIH Trailblazer Awards

Effective Multilateralism

UMass Hockey Heads to NCAA Tournament for Third Straight Season

Russia - The Online War’

Rewriting the History Books: Why the Vikings Left Greenland

COVID-19 Update from the UMass Public Health Promotion Center: March 24

Tricia Serio Named Senior Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs and Provost

March 24, 2022

(DEV:SYNC) are currently recruiting participants for a study they are conducting. The study aims to understand the impact of aging on gait and mobility in older adults. Participants will be selected based on age, gender, and health status. The study will involve quarterly in-home visits, including a physical examination, gait analysis, and interviews. Participants will receive compensation for their time and travel. If you are interested in participating, please contact the study team at volunteerstudy@devsync.com.