Fall 2015 Internship Announcement

Are You Interested in Nutrition Communications? Do you have excellent writing skills? Are you social media savvy? Love photography? Have you always wanted to develop and share your original recipes? If the answer is “yes”, the Foodie on Campus internship is for you!

Foodie on Campus, The College Student’s Guide to life as a foodie, served with a scoop of nutrition, fitness, and health on the side, is accepting summer internship applications. This excellent opportunity for nutrition and dietetic students will help build their resumes. We are currently recruiting the following interns:

- Writing Interns
- Editorial Interns
- Photography Interns
- Social Media Interns
- Recipe Development Interns

This internship will provide amazing opportunities to work on a project with a nationally recognized Registered Dietitian/Nutritionist and gain valuable nutrition communications skills.

Candidates should be self-starters willing to take the initiative and must have prior experience in the position they are applying for. Applications will be sent to interested candidates. Once applications are reviewed qualified candidates will be contacted to arrange a Skype interview! Contact:
