

Abortion and the Hidden Fight Over Reproductive Work

A lecture with Jenny Brown

Nov. 10th, 2022

5-7 pm

Bernie Dallas Room

Goodell Hall

UMass Amherst

Free and open to the public

Masks Welcome

Jenny Brown

WITHOUT APOLOGY

THE ABORTION
STRUGGLE NOW

Jenny Brown is an organizer with the feminist group National Women's Liberation, and former editor of Labor Notes magazine. She was a leader in the grassroots campaign to make morning-after pill contraception available over the counter in the U.S. and was a plaintiff in the winning lawsuit. She is author of Birth Strike: The Hidden Fight over Women's Work (PM Press) and Without Apology: The Abortion Struggle Now (Verso). She writes regularly for Jacobin. Brown has an M.S. in Union Leadership and Administration from UMass Amherst.

Sponsored by the Social Thought and Political Economy Program
Co-Sponsored by the Political Economy Research Institute (PERI), Program on Gender and Care Work, the Department of Economics, Political Economy Workshop and the Department of Women, Gender and Sexuality Studies
STPEC at 50 Event