Over the course of this past summer, Morgan Carney – a M.S. Sustainability Science degree candidate, completed his practicum via an internship with Massachusetts Rivers Alliance. Mass Rivers is a non-profit advocacy group that works to represent it's 60+ river organization and the residents of those watersheds via proposed legislative action. During his time with Mass Rivers, Morgan compiled a comprehensive report comparing the Combined Sewer Overflow (CSO) Notification Policies of neighboring states (Vermont, New York, and Connecticut) in order to better inform decision makers as to whether or not it would be beneficial to implement a similar CSO notification policy in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
