- You may receive up to the cost of attendance for the summer session, which includes tuition, fees, and room and board. Your award may include a Federal Pell Grant if eligible, Federal Direct Loans, and/or up to $4,000 in Summer Work-Study, if eligible.

Please Note: Your Pell Grant and Federal Direct Loans may be limited and/or unavailable if you received your maximum annual award, or reached lifetime eligibility during the 2018-19 academic year. If the cost of your courses exceeds your summer financial aid award amount, you are responsible for paying the difference.
How will summer financial aid affect my academic year aid?

Your Federal Direct Loans and or Pell Grant awards may be limited if you have reached your annual and/or lifetime aggregate.

Will I receive summer financial aid to pay for living expenses?

- Your cost of attendance for the summer includes a room and board allowance. Your summer financial aid award may not cover the full cost of the room and board allowance. You may want to consider applying for an Alternative Loan to pay for these expenses. You may also earn Work-Study to help pay for living expenses, if eligible.

How will my financial aid be affected if I take less than 6 credits or drop a course?
