

Performance Management Overview

Performance Management is designed to promote ongoing communication between a supervisor and employee regarding the planning and achieving of workplace priorities as well as the identification of successes and of any areas for performance improvement. Good performance management uses a collaborative and developmental approach utilizing the following cycle.

Organization's Mission, Goals, and Department Strategic Plans

Provide the context for performance management so that individual performance is aligned with the organization's goals, mission, and University's strategic plan.

